

A child's drawing on a light-colored, textured paper. The central focus is a rocket ship drawn with thick black lines. The rocket has a circular nose cone with a red dot in the center, and a rectangular body with a smaller rectangular section at the top. The background is filled with various elements: blue lines forming constellations, red and blue dots representing stars, a large pinkish-red wash, and a blue crescent moon in the upper right. The drawing is done with markers or crayons, showing some texture and color blending.
